

PAPA BALLOON

Saehanⁿ
par^c

This morning, all the adults
have transformed into balloons.

In the newspapers, everyone is confused:
nobody knows why!

Hana lives with her dad.

Dad always tells her what she must
and must not do.

Ever since he became a balloon, he keeps saying:

-What are you doing?

-Come here!

-Listen to me!

-Stop! You're going to give me a heart attack!

Hana doesn't believe him because she has never seen him have a heart attack.

But she always ends up listening to him because he's her dad.

-Come on, hurry up, we're going to be late!!

-Yes, yes, I'm coming.

Every morning
she takes Dad to his workplace.

-Hello Paul, how are you?

-I'm good and you? Is your dad okay?

-Yes, he's a bit stressed but he's okay.

Before this balloons story,

Hanna didn't know anyone here.

Now she knows everyone.

Well, at least all the children of all the parents.

-Bye Dad, I'll come pick you up this evening.
-Okay, see you later.

The adults insist on working still
even though they have turned into balloons.
But the only thing they do at work is talk and watch political debates on television.

In fact, Dad's favorite show is a TV series about neighbours who fall in love with each other.
But he'll never admit it.

